WHY SHOULD YOU CARE ABOUT VINTRO?

Vintro is an internet based technology platform that guarantees access to people who have historically been inaccessible. Vintro is a more efficient (measured by time and money) way to access key decision makers compared to the physical world.

We can access the key decision makers in businesses here in the US, and around the world, who have historically walled themselves off from new connections.

Key decision makers and business leaders typically wall themselves off because they are afraid of wasting time in nonproductive, unscreened, personal engagements.

Vintro pays key decision makers for their time, at the rate they choose. Because of this, they are no longer afraid of wasting their time.

Businesses have significant costs associated with business development to open up new buyers, new distribution partners and new geographies. Along with this expense comes significant uncertainty if the business development team will be able to make their case in front of the right decision markers. This uncertainty results in significant additional costs.

Using Vintro, you don't pay unless you get the time and attention of the person you are trying to meet. The absolute certainty, the time compression, the lack of travel, wasted time and overhead, means Vintro's technology enabled solution is far more cost effective than the analog, physical world.

Join us as our speaker explains this new platform for reaching people with whom you might not otherwise be able to connect.
