A TOUR OF mHUB – THE MIDWEST’S LEADING PHYSICAL PRODUCT INNOVATION CENTER

In recent years we have toured various Hi-Tech incubators for startups and early stage companies such as 1871 and the Chicago Connector. It was invigorating and inspiring to learn about all the innovation and new ideas their ventures represent.

For our September meeting we will be touring mHUB. Although it is a similar hi-energy entrepreneurial community, mHUB is different in that they are oriented primarily around manufacturing. They are a prototyping lab with product designers, developers, entrepreneurs, engineers, and manufacturers.

Their 63,000 square-foot facility contains 10 fabrication labs, including electronics, plastic fabrication, metals, textiles, and rapid prototyping, as well as a micro-factory for small production runs.

The itinerary will flow as follows:

10:45am – Arrival

11:00am – Meet with select members of their team, including CEO and Co-founder, Haven Allen. We will learn about their vision, model, and capabilities.

Noon– Lunch: sandwiches will be brought in.

12:30pm - Tour of the facility, followed by Q&A.

2:00pm – Adjournment

All social distancing and safety protocols will be practiced. Also, mHUB has their own parking lot, which will simplify our visit.
